CLARK CALLS SELF FOOL OF ANDREWS

Enterprise Cashier Wrote
Confession for Family.

LEFT DETAILS TO EXAMINER

Second Letter Tells Whole Story of Looting of Institution—Rounding
Up Collateral.

Andrews Ruined Him

"Dear Wife and Children:
"In ten hours or less I will be in the other world. You have been a dear, good wife to me, Andrews has worked my ruin.
"Dear wife, keep all the insurance for yourself and babies. How hard it is to leave you all. I have made a desperate effort to keep things going until I could get the road financed, but it has been too slow. The examiner is here and I am ruined. Do forgive me. It is not my fault. I have been shamefully robbed. The bank will get everything but the life insurance.
"Your husband, LEE."
—Cashier Clark, of Enterprise Bank, Allegheny, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2.—A letter written by T. Lee Clark, the dead cashier of the Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny, just before he killed himself, and confessing his guilt in the looting of the bank, and directly accusing W. H. Andrews of being responsible for Clark's ruin, has been given to the public by Clark's family.

Examiner Has Confession.
This is but one of the confessions left by Clark. A member of the Clark family announced that it was known Clark left another confession for Bank Examiner Cunningham in which he went deeper into details on the matter of finance.

The fourteen-year-old daughter of Clark found this letter or confession a few hours after her father had killed himself. Rummaging around she found this letter in his bedroom and reading it decided to hide it until after the funeral so that her mother might not suffer more.

After Collateral.
Judge Kennedy has granted the injunction asked by D. L. Patterson to restrain Lemart S. Cook, of the Guarantee Title and Trust Company, from disposing of collateral which Patterson placed in the defunct Enterprise Bank as security for a loan and which was hypothecated by Clark.

Directors Fight.
The directors will make a legal fight against payment of the individual assets given to fortify the State funds of $1,000,000 in the bank.

Receiver Cunningham secured a writ of foreign attachment on the property of W. H. Andrews, who was seized last Saturday by Receiver Cunningham to recover over $25,000 on Andrews' notes to the bank.

FOUR NEW SMALLPOX CASES ARE REPORTED

Sufferers Are Thought to Have Contracted the Malady by Contact With Other Patient.

Four new cases of smallpox were reported to the Health Department last night. In all other cases with one exception the victims are reported as convalescing, they having been under treatment for some time.

The four new sufferers are Frank J. Stecker, thirty-one years old, of 124½ Duncan street northeast, next door to the Vander Las home; Emma F. Sherwood, aged fifty-three years, of 711 Twelfth street northeast, a sister-in-law of Stecker; Charles W. Sherwood, her son, five years old, and Dora Hurley, of the same address.
Mrs. Sherwood was in attendance on Stecker and is believed to have received the contagion from him. Stecker was taken ill on September 18, and it is said was walking at large for nearly three weeks before he was confined to his bed. Mrs. Sherwood and Dora Hurley are much improved, although the child is still in a very serious condition. Mrs. Hurley has requested that she be allowed to attend her daughter in the hospital, but this request, it is said, will be refused.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY CLIMBING OUT OF DEBT

A statement issued by Cardinal Gibbons on the finances of the Catholic University of America, says that the remaining debt on the institution is but $50,000.

This will be reduced to $40,000 on December 1. The cardinal firmly believes that within a few months the institution will be entirely free from debt.

Coming soon after what seemed to be a disastrous period in the history of the university, the announcement is welcomed by Catholics.

Cardinal Gibbons states that $35,000 has been invested in first class securities and that the income from these investments is being used to defray current expenses.

According to the annual custom the regular collection in aid of the university will be taken up in all the Catholic churches the first Sunday in Advent. The regular increase in this collection is expected.

In 1903, the collection aggregated $105,451.58, and in 1904 the amount reached $116,229.58.

"BULL" ANDREWS

FINANCIER AND POLITICIAN.

"Bull" was one of the late Senator Quay's henchmen. Some time ago he went to New Mexico to finance a railroad, and is now a Territorial Delegate from the Territory. His railroad's connection with the disgraced Enterprise Bank scandal, in Allegheny, Pa., has caused National Bank Examiner John R. Cunningham to accuse him of conspiracy and to sue him for $32,000, which is alleged to be due the bank.

CHARLES DEVLIN, BIG MINE OPERATOR, DEAD

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Charles J. Devlin, the widely known coal mine operator, who recently underwent bankruptcy with liabilities of $4,000,000, died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital last night as the result of a stroke of paralysis. He suffered a similar stroke last summer.
The First National Bank at Topeka, of which he was the principal stockholder, failed, owing depositors more than $1,500,000. The bank was found to hold nearly $1,000,000 of Devlin paper.

FOLK STIMPS OHIO FOR STATE TICKET

To Smite Corruption in Whirlwind Tour.

CALLED IN TO OFFSET SHAW

Bitter Campaign Against Republican
Candidates and Cox of Cincinnati
Nearing the End.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 2.—Governor Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, reformer and champion of good government, today commenced a whirlwind tour of Ohio in a special train. He is to speak at several places in the State in the interests of the Democratic party, and more especially in the interests of good government and against political corruption.
He is the only national leader to be brought into the State by the Democrats, supplementary to Secretary of War Taft, who recently spoke and denounced scathing General Cox, the Republican leader of Cincinnati, even claiming that he would vote against his own party ticket in Cincinnati if it were not necessary for him to be absent in Panama, and in opposition to Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who has inspired the Republican cause.
Vice President Fairbanks also spoke at the campaign opening.
The campaign just closing has been one of the liveliest in the history of the State. A feature has been the holding of the Republican ticket by many representative men, including Congressmen, editors and prominent officeholders.

ESPARTA IS BLAMED FOR HITTING MAGNOLIA

A report by lighthouse officials aboard the Magnolia, when that vessel, with the Espartero, collided with the fruit steamer Esparta off New Orleans, has been submitted to the lighthouse board in this city.
All blame for the collision is laid on the Esparta, it is understood.
The report denies that there was any neglect or questionable action on the part of officials aboard the Magnolia.

Former Convicts Glad To Meet Former Superior

Old Instructor of Military Department at New York State Reformatory at Elmira Tells of His Experiences Then and Now.

Col. C. C. Bryan, for many years military instructor at the New York State Reformatory, at Elmira, N. Y., and at present employed in the Postoffice Department, relates some novel experiences during his five years in Washington.

"Since I have been with the Postoffice Department," says Colonel Bryan, "I have met ten ex-convicts of the Elmira institution on the streets here. Without exception they have recognized me and seemed glad to meet me under circumstances so different from those under which we parted several years ago."
"When I first got off the train here a man came up and shook me by the hand and asked if I was the same man I told him that I most certainly did, as I had served a two years' sentence under me, and had been one of the most orderly men we had ever had in the institution."

An Assumed Name.
"He told me that he had married after getting out of prison and had two children. He told me to take a look at his place of business when I went on Pennsylvania avenue. I did notice it the first time I got a chance, and after I had been here a short while learned that he was not only one of the leading merchants of the city, but also one of the most prominent figures in many public enterprises."
"Of course he served his term under an assumed name and no one would imagine who it is if I should tell you the name on the prison register. His crime was the one mistake of his life and he no longer appreciated the fact better than he did. He had been going a pretty lively pace after he left college, and being in urgent need of money had secured a check. He was the son of wealthy parents, but his father thought the experience would teach him a lesson and I can vouch that it did."

The child, I have since employed in the different Government departments, or working at trades they learned at the institution. As far as it has been possible for me to discover they are not only good law-abiding citizens, but have never shown any further criminal tendency.
"Something over a year ago I was walking to the office one morning when I was surprised to see a man who had served a long sentence at the reformatory. When I first went to Elmira he gave me considerable trouble and for nearly six months I had to exert the strictest discipline over him."

One Day's Lecture.
"One day I called him to my office and gave him what you call a man to man talk. I lectured him for over an hour and when he went back to his cell I thought that if he still continued in his old ways there was little hope of reforming him and that he would spend most of his life in the penitentiary. It had the desired result, however, and from then on there was a marked improvement in his behavior."

"He came up to me with outstretched hand and the first words that fell from his lips were thanks for the lecture I had given him. He told me that it had been the turning point in his life, and at the time he had resolved to change his ways and reform. Then he told me that he would like to come and see me as there was something he wished to talk about. That evening he called, and after telling me of his struggle to get on his feet said he was engaged to be married and had not told the girl anything of his former life."

"He said he had intended to for a while, but had kept putting it off until he had become afraid to speak of it. The girl was the daughter of a highly respected bureau chief in the Government employ. He was afraid that if he told her that she would refuse to marry him, but still greater was his fear that if he did marry her without telling her the truth she would find it out at some later day."

"I told him I did not want the responsibility of deciding any such question, but he urged me so seriously, saying that he wanted to get the burden off his own shoulders, that I advised him to come out with the whole story. This he did, and today they are living happily in a modest house of their own. The man, by the way, is a skilled workman at the Navy Yard."

"Many of these men who come in contact with me, and who have really seemed glad to see me, threatened all sorts of violence if they ever saw me after leaving the institution. I would not care, however," concluded the colonel, "to walk through the slums of New York alone at night. Many of the worst criminals come from that district, and a goodly number return to their old haunts after being released."

BISHOP HAMILTON BARS BLACK RACE

Not Included in His Amalgamation Scheme.

SPOKE OF FOREIGN WHITES

Quotes Figures to Show Dangers of Presence of Millions With Damaging Ideas.

Bishop J. W. Hamilton, of California, whose recent statement that race amalgamation was needed in this country to produce the real type of American, denies that he included in any way the native African.

Before leaving for the Methodist conference in Philadelphia, Bishop Hamilton gave out the following:

Are Agnostics.
"The statement that included the native African in my scheme of race amalgamation is in error. I had no reference to the colored man, but intended to point out that the nation will be menaced if the great tide of foreign population which comes annually to this country is not drawn into and amalgamated with our own American citizenship."

"The picture presented by the great numbers of foreigners forming the population of the big cities of the country is one which, when studied, will cause any American citizen to think twice and wonder how the problem of future citizenship is to be settled. How this great foreign population lives, how it works, what forms its many religious beliefs, and how it views the future with relation to what we term our American citizenship are questions which are well worth study."

Aliens in Majority.
"Of the thirty-eight cities in the country of more than 100,000 population, only five have a majority of native Americans. Nearly one million and a half cannot speak or write English. This great foreign population consists of 100,000 Welsh, 300,000 Mexicans, 200,000 Indians, 50,000 Japanese, 100,000 Chinese, 50,000 Greeks, 1,500 Turks, who are Mohammedans, and more than 1,000,000 Italians. Of the Italians more than 250,000 are in New York city alone. In addition, there are 25,000 Portuguese, 20,000 Spaniards, 125,000 French, and over 1,000,000 Jews, 600,000 of whom are in New York city. Of the 400,000 Bohemians and Poles, now in this country, nearly all have come since 1880. Up to 1903, there were 200,000 people here from Austria-Hungary.

"A Bohemian physician not long since stated to me that there are forty-two Bohemian newspapers in this country, seven of which are religious, five being Catholic and two Protestant. Of the thirty-five secular papers, one was favorable to Christianity, one neutral, and thirty-three advocate infidelity."

Foreign Menace.
"In addition, these foreigners have their own schools, churches, and religious societies. In these schools they teach infidelity. In their catechism is this question: 'What duty do we owe God?' And the answer is: 'We owe no duty to God, for there is no God.'
"It is not plain that such a condition on our very doors has a grave problem to face?" continues Bishop Hamilton.
"Out of this composite mass we will get our American citizens of the future, and such a citizen can only be produced by the evangelization and amalgamation of the races."
